

Professional Liability

Niles Barton represents individuals and businesses against claims of professional negligence, errors & omissions (“E&O”), intentional misconduct, statutory violations, and breach of ethical standards. Our clients have included accountants, architects, engineers, dentists, health care professionals, directors and officers, lawyers, real estate brokers and agents, insurance agents, and financial planners, among others. We have been both directly retained by professionals as well as acted as panel counsel for professional liability insurance companies who provide various E&O, employment practices liability (“EPLI”), and directors & officers (“D&O”) coverages. Niles Barton practices in both state and federal courts and before regulatory bodies. Our attorneys emphasize a result-oriented, cost-effective approach to the defense of professional liability claims. We recognize that these cases can be sensitive, difficult and time-consuming, and we seek to minimize the impact on our clients’ practices while ensuring that their interests are zealously protected.
